

Christian Stammel

Christian Stammel was born in 1969, and has a family with one daughter. He brings together, a deep understanding of high tech markets with an entrepreneurial exposure expertise. He has strong links with the European network in the field of GIS, GNSS and IT / TC market. In addition to that, he is also actively involved in the lifestyle and sporting market, and founder of the international leading Wearable Technologies platform.

- Degree in economics and marketing
- Managing Director of a Company in the retail domain.
- Founder and CFO of an 80 Mio. Euro Venture in the field of convergence applications.
- Exited of the Venture End of 2002
- Since 2002 on successful consulting assignments for several start up teams at the application center for satellite navigation in munich.
- Founder of Navispace in 2003.
- Development of the European Competition for Satellite Navigation (Galileo-Masters) for the customer "Application Center for Satellite Navigation"
- Navispace has several customers in the field of technology transfer & Business Development such as ESA , Vodafone Germany or Sefar AG
- Responsible for development of WT – The leading platform for Wearable Technologies. Showing this platform at international leading tradeshows like electronica (nov.08), ispo munich & china (world leading tradeshow of the sporting goods industry)
- Business Development for customers in the LBS, Navigation, GIS and Lifestyle market over his networks
- Member of the biggest organisation for GIS companies in Germany "Round table GIS" (Runder Tisch GIS) and the head of the group for Galileo / GIS